President Offers Vessel To 600 Stranded Students

Telegram to Capitol Brings Quick Help; Ship May Sail Next Tuesday

New York, June 24 (AP)—President Truman was ready today to give 600 Europe-bound students the thing they missed the most—their boat.

The White House offer of the Military Transport General Balfour yesterday pumped new life into a summer cruise that began to look like a flat tire when the coast guard learned the original ship was a floater.

The students, some with as little as $100 left after paying their passage, suddenly realized with horror they were cast away on the most expensive beach in the world—New York City.

In their despair, they fired off telegrams in all directions.

One landed in the White House. Only 80 minutes later a navy rear commander of the Military Sea Transportation Service, was on the telephone offering the Balfour.

But while the President was kind-hearted, he wasn't exactly giving the government's money away. He laid down two conditions—the students must get a contract release from the operators of the first vessel the Norwegian motorship Svalbard, and they must pay the Balfour's regular expenses.

These are expected to amount to nearly $200,000 the students had paid for the Svalbard.

If all goes well and no other commercial transportation is found, the Balfour should be ready to sail for Rotterdam with the youth party on Tuesday. Right now, the government vessel is due in New York for lay-up after considerable service carrying refugees.

The students, traveling under the sponsorship of the National Student Association, had planned to sail Thursday aboard the Svalbard, a former Nazi ship now owned by the Norwegian government.

22 Women Held In Hudson Raid

Hudson, N. Y., June 24 (AP)—Fifty-five state troopers raided five Columbia street houses in this city of 12,000 and arrested 22 women early today.

Five women were charged with running "unlawful houses." The others were charged with vagrancy. They were held in Columbia county jail without bail for arraignment Wednesday.

The arrests followed visits by about 20 plainclothesmen from the State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

In a separate action, the troopers accused Anthony D. Cinzio, about 65, of running a poker game in South Front street. He pleaded guilty to a charge of common gambling and paid a $100 fine to County Judge William E. J. Connor.

Five men were picked up with Cinzio and questioned.

The raid was led by Chief B.C.I. Inspector Francis S. McGorvey, and Inspector Charles La Forge and Capt. Joseph A. Storey of Troop G, headquartered in Troy. Troopers came from several sub-stations.

District Attorney John N. McLaren took charge after the arrests. Asked by a reporter whether he had requested the raid, McLaren declined comment.

Chief John J. Sullivan of the city police joined the raid after troopers called for him at his home.

Five Big Railroads Due for Tieup as Switchmen Strike

No Signs of Any Break in Rift Between Men and Roads; Sunday Date

Chicago, June 24 (AP)—Switchmen on five big mid-western and western railroads are due to strike tomorrow morning. Four of the roads have announced they will not try to operate.

There was no sign—early today—of any break in the deadlock between the A.F.L. Switchmen's Union of North America and the carriers.

The five roads are the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, the Chicago Great Western, The Western Pacific, the Great Northern and the Denver and Rio Grande Western.

Francis A. O'Neill, chairman of National (Railway) Mediation Board said late yesterday that "nothing is cooking" in the board's attempts to bring about a post-mortem compromise, or settlement of the dispute. He said the board was in telephonic communication with both sides.

The strike would cut off the five roads are the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, the Chicago Great Western, The Western Pacific, the Great Northern and the Denver and Rio Grande Western.

Three Are Injured In Overnight Car Crashes in County

Three persons were reported injured in motor vehicle accidents in Ulster county last night and early today.

Richard Snyder, 22, of 192 Market street, Saugerties, was injured about 7:30 a. m. today when he was thrown from his motorcycle on Route 9W just south of the state police barracks at Lake Katrine.

Snyder was taken to the Benedictine Hospital, where X-rays were scheduled today to determine the extent of his injuries. His condition was tentatively reported as "fair" by the hospital today.

Snyder told troopers that his cycle was struck by an unknown vehicle, causing it to run off the right side of the highway and overturn. He was driving north towards Saugerties at the time of the accident, troopers said.

Pedestrian Hurt

In another accident, a 69-year-old pedestrian was reported struck and injured in Marlborough at 7 p. m. Friday. State police of Highland said the man, Louis McElrath, of Marlborough, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh, where the exact extent of his injuries have not been determined.

Troopers said McElrath was struck at the intersection of Western avenue and Grand street in Marlborough by an automobile driven by Earl Benjamin, 46, of Marlborough. Benjamin told troopers the man stepped from behind a parked car and into the path of the Benjamin vehicle as it was turning left from Western avenue into Grand street.

In Kingston, police reported at 7:57 p. m. Friday that Agnes Finley, 45, of Richmond Park was treated for a back injury after an automobile driven by her husband, Frank Finley, collided with an automobile driven by J. The accident occurred at the intersection of Roosevelt and Kierstead avenues, police said.

Following the accident, Finley had Marcus arrested on a charge of reckless driving. In City Court this morning, Marcus pleaded innocent and the case was adjourned until Monday morning.

Two Held in Shooting

Morrisstown, Tenn., June 24 (AP)—Two men believed to have fired the first shots in the strike violence at the American Enka plant Thursday were arrested today by state highway patrolmen. They were charged with intent to commit murder in the first degree. A third man is sought on the same charge. A force of 75 patrolmen was dispatched here after the shooting began. They quickly put down the now flare-up in the 88-day old labor dispute.

Explosion Injures Three

New York, June 24 (AP)—A chemical explosion followed by a flash fire injured three persons, one seriously, in the Brooklyn plant of the New York Daily News today. The explosion and fire occurred in the plant's rotogravure section at 9 a. m. (E.S.T.). The fire was extinguished quickly.

"Tell all you know about racketeering in this borough, if you don't, you will get the limit," Assistant District Attorney Aaron Koota said he would ask the court to sentence Amarante to a year in jail and fine him $500 on each count.

Amarante had been held as a material witness in the investigation which followed a raid by the district attorney's staff on a Flushing avenue candy store in Brooklyn. There had been complaints the store was headquarters for a numbers ring.

Trial evidence showed Amarante was at the store during the raid, with the store keys in his pocket. His refusal to answer questions about his connection with the store led to his conviction.

300 Fight Forest Fire Near Homes

Riverhead, N. Y., June 24 (AP)—A roaring forest fire swept over two and a half miles of Lake Pannamoka woodland last night and early today, threatening several summer homes before it was extinguished.

The fire burned from 7 p. m. (E.S.T.) to 1:15 a. m. More than 300 volunteer firemen from Ridge, Sound Beach, Millers Place and Mt. Sinai fought the blaze, beating it back before it could reach the residential area. The lake is seven miles west of here.

Wild life enthusiasts said they believed the fire took a heavy toll of small game.

Flames shooting into the sky could be seen from the Connecticut shore across Long Island Sound.

Hunted Criminal Shot by F.B.I. Men

Henry Harland Shelton Was One of 10 Leading U. S. Fugitives

Indianapolis, June 24 (AP)—Two F.B.I. agents shot down Henry Harland Shelton, one of the nation's 10 most-wanted criminals last night when the Michigan fugitive reached for a gun to avoid arrest.

Shelton was critically wounded. The only two bullets fired by the agents passed through his body.

The 41-year-old fugitive from the northern Michigan state prison was approached by the agents in front of an eastside tavern last night.

Mrs. Mason P. Harper, wife of the tavern owner, was standing about six feet from Shelton and said she heard an agent say: "Come on, fella, it's all over."

"That's what you think," the lone sought fugitive replied.

Both agents fired and Shelton collapsed on the sidewalk before he could shoot.

The fugitive's career in crime goes back to 1933 when he robbed a bank in Kaleva, Mich. He was serving a 60-year term for this when he escaped last Labor Day.

Goshen Fireman Chosen President in Po'keepsie

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 24 (AP)—Percy Van Leuven of Goshen, N. Y., yesterday unanimously was elected president of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association at the 61st annual convention.

No Reason Given Yet for Action by Senator Who Has Been Severe Critic of A.E.C.

Hearing Tuesday

Three Other Names Are Approved Without Any Opposition

By OLIVER W. DEWOLF
Washington, June 24 (AP)—A new Senate floor-up over the Atomic Energy Commission appeared to be brewing today around the figure of Acting Chairman Sumner T. Pike.

Pike, nominated by President Truman for a new four-year term on the commission, got a sharp rebuff yesterday when his reappointment was held up by the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee.

Senator McMahon (D-Conn.), committee chairman, told the Senate the action was taken at the request of Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), the ranking Republican member who has been a severe critic of past A.E.C. operations.

No reason was given for Hickenlooper's latest action. He commented in Des Moines: "I haven't announced my personal position yet on the Pike nomination."

While Pike's nomination was held up, three other reappointments were approved without the formality of a hearing. They were: Gordon Dean of California for a three-year term; Thomas Murray of New York for a two-year term, and Henry DeWolf Smith of New Jersey for a one-year term.

A poll of Senate committee members, to whom the nominations were referred, sent all three names to the Senate for confirmation, probably Monday. No opposition is expected. The House does not act on nominations.

McMahon said Pike will be given a hearing Tuesday, but whether it will be open to the public depends on the report, on Hickenlooper's views.

The term of all four men expires June 30.

President Truman has not yet filled the vacancy created on the commission by the resignation of Lewis Strauss last April 15. Neither has he named a permanent chairman.

Pike became acting chairman following the resignation last February 15, of David E. Lighthall, Pike, 58, and a Republican in the last of the original five-man commission named by the President in 1946 to take over the job of directing the atomic establishment when the army relinquished control in January, 1947.

The Congressional Atomic Committee investigated the commission in May, 1949, after Hickenlooper had charged Lighthall with the "incredible mismanagement" of the nation's atomic energy program.

Last October, the committee's Democratic majority reported that the inquiry had been "fruitless in proving the charges of 'incredible mismanagement.'"

Itinerant Farmer Loses Life in Fire At Marlborough

Cause of Early Morning Blaze Is Undetermined; Victim Known Locally as Finnegan

An itinerant farm laborer burned to death in a shack on the John Mannion farm at Marlborough early today.

Troopers at Highland barracks said the man was known locally as Barney Finnegan, but was otherwise unidentified. He was between 55 and 60 years of age.

The fire broke out about 2 a. m. today. State police said its cause has not been determined. Finnegan was believed to have been alone in the shack when the fire started, troopers said.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly of Kingston was notified. The body was turned over to the Tullithill Funeral Home in Marlborough pending further investigation on the man's identity.

The five who remain at the hospital are Jennie Bishop, 35, Broadway; Laura Ellsworth, 30 Pettit avenue; Mary Monetti, 71 Abbey street; Minnie Kiraly, 24 St. Mary's street; and Edna Davis, Rt. 2, Box 15, Kingston.

Bar Blasts Dewey On Judges' Stand

Saratoga Inn, N. Y., June 24 (AP)—Governor Dewey, who may enter private law practice when he retires at the end of his term, has drawn fire from the executive committee of the State Bar Association for his recent remarks against some judges.

The committee took issue yesterday with Dewey's charges that some New York state judges were incompetent because of illness, senility or drunkenness.

The committee challenged the governor to act on his charges. In a resolution adopted unanimously, the committee said the governor had "the power to cope with a situation such as that" by initiating retirement or removal proceedings.

The committee acted at the association's annual mid-summer meeting. The three-day session ends today.

An association spokesman said that to all intents and purposes the executive committee spoke for the association.

Dewey's criticism of what he called "incompetence" was made Monday at the national governors' conference in White Sulphur Spring, W. Va.

Dewey claimed that some New York judges had become ill, senile or "drunks," he did not mention names.

The governor suggested that state judges should be appointed, rather than elected, and they should be made subject to removal or retirement.

The jury of 10 men and two women, locked up overnight to prevent possible attempts to reach them, yesterday found Amarante guilty on seven counts of criminal contempt.

Judge Louis Goldstein said the verdict was "a warning to anyone else who refuses to disclose information to the district attorney and the grand jury."

The judge fixed next Tuesday for sentencing. He told Amarante he would give him until then to

Double Action Door
Double action doors between kitchen, butler's pantry and dining room are being included in the plans of many new homes. Older homes may benefit from the same convenience, however, as regular doors may be replaced with those of double action. Double acting door closers can now be obtained which are concealed in the wood-work over the door. The old-fashioned features are regarded as standard in most fixtures of this kind. Simple to install and adjust, the mechanism is entirely out of sight and no cutting of the floor is said to be necessary.

Shingles Can Be Used
In the example illustrated the outside walls were finished with painted clapboards. But shingles could be used or the walls could be masonry. The roof is covered with black, fire-resistant shingles, and black-painted shutters are hung at the windows. The wide windows and the wide dormers at the front roof are pleasing deviations from the usual Cape Cod style.

This type of house should be fully insulated with weather stripping and equipped with storm windows.

The front door opens into a hall with stairs to the second floor. Arched, as left and right open to the living room and dining room.

The living room, measuring 18 x 13.4 feet, is lighted by the two wide windows at the front and two smaller windows at either side of the fireplace, in the other outside wall of the room. Inside walls have long unbroken areas for large furniture. At one end of the long inside wall, a door opens to a rear hall connecting with the first-floor bedroom, lavette kitchen and cellar stairs. There are two closets in this hall.

Built-In China Cabinet
The dining room measures 12 x 10.1/2 feet and has a built-in china cabinet centered between the arch at the front of hall and a door closing off a closet in one corner of the room. Two windows provide cross lighting and ventilation. A 2-way swinging door connects the dining room with the kitchen.

The kitchen is unusually large. A broom closet is tucked in by the refrigerator corner and floor space is allocated for a breakfast set by a window looking out on the enclosed porch. Some owners may wish to put the porch area to use as a laundry—an idea embodied in many new homes in the upper price brackets. Otherwise, laundry equipment could be installed in the basement.

The first floor bedroom is 13x10 feet in size and has windows looking on two sides—the one at the rear is a double casement. A clothes closet is located in one corner of the room.

Spacious Bedrooms Upstairs
Upstairs there are two spacious bedrooms with an abundance of storage space. The bathroom is between the bedrooms, opening on a short hall at the head of the stairs. There is a linen closet in the hall.

The smaller bedroom measures 13x11.4 feet, has windows on three sides and a large clothes closet. A tier of built-in drawers is placed in the knee wall of the front room.

The master bedroom measures 15.1x13 feet and also has windows on three exposures. This room has two large clothes closets, a rack of built-in drawers and a door opening to storage space under the roof.

This house should be built facing from southwest to northeast.

Square Design Cuts Cost Of Cape Cod CottageLayout Fills Needs of Many Prospective Home Builders

Studies made by government experts, architects and builders, with a view to bringing down the cost of homes indicate that the first step toward economy is to use of a square plan, without breaks or ell.

This fact has been kept in mind by the Home of the Week Plan Service in designing "The Ipswich," the 6-room Cape Cod cottage pictured at the right.

This house has a layout which meets the needs of many prospective builders—four rooms with complete living accommodations on the first floor and two rooms and bath on the second floor.

The dwelling itself measures 57' x 25' and has a cubic content of 18,500 feet. An enclosed porch, 9 1/2' x 9 1/2' feet in dimensions, serves as a connecting link between the dwelling and a garage 13 feet in width, giving the complete structure an overall frontage of 57 feet. If the lot is extra wide, the porch could be made larger. The garage is spacious enough to accommodate a work bench built against either of the side walls.

How to Clean Doors Stained by Hardware

If copper or bronze hardware or doors causes staining of the painted surface, a practical remedy is to remove the hardware from the doors, clean both the backs and fronts thoroughly, polish, wipe clean with benzine and then apply spar varnish or clear lacquer to both sides of the metal.

If staining has necessitated the repainting of the door, that job should be done before the cleaned and refinished hardware is glued back into place.

If the hardware is iron, every trace of rust should be removed and both sides given a good coating of paint before putting the hardware back in place.

Clothes Chute Is Handy

In two-story houses in which laundry facilities are located in the basement a clothes chute is a great convenience. If this is built in when the house is erected, it can extend down directly from a bathroom laundry hamper. A self-closing trap door at the bottom of the chute is important for fire prevention. Held by a soft spring, the door will open under the weight of clothing and snap shut to close the chute against possible function as a flue if a fire should break out.

Plaster Should Be Dry

If a new plaster wall has to be decorated immediately, it may be dried and calcimined. In general, however, new plaster walls should be given at least two months' time in which to dry out before attempting to decorate. If paint is put in green plaster, it is likely to discolor in spots. If the walls are papered, the paper may peel off in places or become discolored.

See That Putty Is Secure

In preparing for an outside paint job, always make sure the putty around windows is secure. If not have it removed. Before new putty is applied, have the sash edge painted with a good prime coat.

PERENNIAL POSTAL DEFICIT
Bills' to rescind the Post Office Department's recent cuts in mail service await floor action in both houses of Congress. But the lawmakers might better devote their energy to something else, for these measures won't mean anything even should they become law.

The reason is simple: Congress won't provide the money needed to restore the service reductions. In fact, the department in all likelihood will enter the 1950-51 fiscal year with its budget somewhat trimmed.
It's another case of the legislators trying to have their cake and eat it, too. Post Office deficits are chronic. The Congress never has faced up to the problem of how to put the department on a consistently paying basis. This year postal operations are $545,000,000 in the red.

If the cuts ordered by Postmaster General Donaldson serve to stir the public enough to push the lawmakers toward some real solution, they may be a good thing. Even though, according to an early survey of the effects of the changes, a considerable number of business firms are suffering.

The reductions in service themselves are certainly no solution. At best it was hoped they would chop $30,000,000 off operating costs, but experience to date suggests the saving may be substantially less.

The big money losers in the department are the second, third and fourth class mail services handling, respectively, newspapers and magazines, advertising circulars, and parcel post. Only first class mail and postal savings earn their way.

Each of these red-ink services ought to be examined closely by Congress with a view to streamlining it and getting it onto the most efficient basis possible. Wherever they apply, the recommendations of the Hoover Commission should be adopted.

If such revamping does not produce the economies needed to wipe out the deficits in these categories, then Congress would seem to have no choice but to raise rates so operations can get into the black.

Any other course amounts to flat acknowledgment that Congress is prepared to carry the Post Office Department indefinitely as a cumbersome, inefficient giant that cannot earn its salt.

If the lawmakers should surprise by really buckling down to this task, they ought also to end for all time the absurd fiction of "air mail subsidies" to the airlines. American civil aviation may need subsidy to survive; that's a problem of another sort. But what is thought wise for the airlines has nothing to do with running the air mail service, which should function according to costs and standards suitable to its own special nature.

Do you have trouble balancing your books? There are commercial services which will do all your work for you. The real need, as the average man sees it, is for a service that will keep his personal check-book balanced.

DRIVING TESTS
The Ohio Highway Patrol has tightened its requirements for acquiring driving licenses. The applicant must first take a written examination covering ten questions as to correct driving procedures. He must make at least seventy per cent on that test. Then he must take visual tests, first reading signs on the road ahead, then reading from a card. If he fails these he must see an oculist and he gets another chance after he has new glasses. Then he must take an actual driving test which has forty-one points. He must park in a space twenty-three feet long, parallel to the curb, without bumping the car ahead or behind, without too much maneuvering, or hitting or running over the curb.

Loud have been the howls of those who have failed. They get little sympathy from members of the Highway Patrol. These tests make better drivers, they say, and who can deny it?
Every state should have tests at least as hard as these. Some already have them.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

DEMOCRACY
Words are sounds which are only important if they are understood. An oration by Demosthenes would produce no notable effect if delivered in an average American university, because most of the students would not understand a word of it. Truly, it would be Greek to them. So the sounds of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony are meaningless to the tone deaf.

In this era, we have fallen into the habit of using words the meaning of which is not precise and varies so widely as to be confusing. Everybody understands the word, dollar. That represents the basic American currency for which it is possible to exchange labor and buy goods. It has a value which, while it fluctuates in different parts of the world, nevertheless can perform the service which is expected of it. No one can make a very grievous error about that.

The word, democracy, has not a similarly clear value. It is one of the most confusing words afloat today. It is even more confusing than the word, liberal, which hardly means anything at all even as a political label. The word, democracy, while it might arouse some emotional response, like love, can convey no precise concept of life.

For instance, in the United States, democracy has come to mean a way of life in which political and social equality are desirable objectives. Therefore, democracy does not and cannot exist in the United States, where only two types of equality are possible. Equality before the law in a court, and equality of opportunity in an economic sense. Life in this country is not organized to provide social equality for the entire population, which includes 13,000,000 negroes, to say nothing of Jews, Italians and recent immigrants against whom prejudices continue. It cannot provide economic equality since it thrives on competition; it cannot even guarantee equality of benefits as these vary on a state rights basis.

Even F.E.C. does not make this country democratic. All that such a measure can do is to penalize racial or religious prejudice in the economic sphere; but it cannot remove prejudice in the social sphere. Even the recent Supreme Court decisions regarding southern states to eliminate some phases of discrimination in educational institutions will not alter an attitude which has taken root so tenaciously.

I am not discussing the normalities of these problems. This is a discussion of the relation of words to reality. So, when a Communist speaks of democracy, he is in no manner dealing with equality, but rather with the common ownership of the means of production, distribution and exchange, through a government operated by a single political party to which all persons must owe unquestioning and unquestioned loyalty.

Consider these two definitions and you will grasp why Roosevelt and Stalin could not understand each other at Yalta. It was not because of language difficulties but rather that the basic assumptions of these men were so wide apart. No interpreter could help either of them because each was conditioned by his own beliefs. When, for instance, Roosevelt proposed a democracy for Poland and Stalin agreed, each meant something different because each the same word was a symbol for something that he understood only in his own way.

Similarly at Potsdam, when Truman dealt with democratic elections in the nations released from Nazi control, Stalin understood something different from Truman's experience with the two-party system with which Truman had lived all his life.

To Stalin, a democratic election means one in which only one party appears on the ballot—a list of candidates representing either the Communist Party or a coalition of who are called the People's Parties. Under the American system, every citizen may vote, with a few restrictions as to time of residence, ability to read, etc. Under Stalin's concept only those may vote who have not been declared to be enemies of the people by those in power. The American system is designed to give the people officials of their own choice; under the Marxist system, the election is to perpetuate those in power who represent the revolution.

The differences are so vast that only prolonged study and the use of precise language can make them clear.

That Body of Yours

THE PREVENTION OF MENTAL DISEASE

While there is no denying the fact that mental disease is increasing, we must not forget that mental disease has always been present. That our present rate of living is a factor in causing many to behave in an abnormal manner is admitted. There never was a time in the world's history when so many physical and mental problems had to be faced. In former times a man could hunt, till the ground and eke out a living. Today he has to "keep up" with his neighbors, a more difficult job than just hunting and living in a cave. Mental disease is not new; earliest history mentions mental ailments familiar to us today.

Before the discovery of shock treatment for mental disease, our mental specialists were able to cure or so greatly improve the condition of mental patients that 6 of every 10 entering mental hospitals were able to leave hospital for home and former occupations. Therefore, while it is true that more and more of the population become mental patients at some period of their lives, it is also true that with the coming of shock treatment—insulin, mescaline and electric—there is now a better chance of recovery and the prevention of serious mental disease.

Just because we have this wonderful shock treatment to combat mental disease we must not forget that the light against mental disease, mostly by prevention, must be carried on in a vigorous manner. There are more patients in our mental hospitals than in all other hospitals combined; statistics show that almost one in every ten of us may expect to be confined to a mental hospital at some time in his life.

What is the underlying cause of so much mental disease in the world?
Our psychiatrists tell us that, while we watch our physical and mental development, we fail to watch our emotional development or control. We allow our emotions to guide our control. We allow our emotions to guide our conduct.
Our children should be encouraged to play and mix well with other children, thus learning to give and take and acquire neither an inferiority complex nor a superiority complex. This will enable them when they grow up to manhood and womanhood to be natural and normal in any position in life.

Neurosis
Believing you have a physical ailment when none exists is a neurosis and is becoming increasingly common. Write today for Dr. Barton's informative booklet on this subject entitled "Neurosis." An Early Draftee Gets the Good Word

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Washington — In fairness to Congressman John S. Wood of Georgia, here is the gist of his reply after I reported that his office had exacted a $1,000 fee from a crippled boy hit by an army truck after a bill was passed by Congress giving him relief for his injuries.

"Pearson is an arch liar, a scoundrel, a character assassin, a rogue, villain and slanderer," the congressman told his colleagues on the floor of the House of Representatives.
"Pearson's stock in trade consists of a wicked heart, a lying tongue and a poisonous pen. To him there is nothing in the heavens that is sacred. He belittles and means to defame everything he touches. He occupies the unique and unenviable position today of standing alone at the very pinnacle of all slanders and scandal-mongers in all American history."

Fee Was Satisfactory
Congressman Wood also admitted that his assistant, Carl Talbot, did accept a fee of $1,000 from Ralph Stanfield, the boy who was hit by an army truck. But in justification, the congressman obtained an affidavit from the boy's father stating that he was "satisfied."

The elder Stanfield gave this affidavit only after his employer, Jack Chappel, manager of the Georgia Marble Company, to whom Stanfield owes his job, personally drove him to the congressman's office. But regardless of any pressure, the fact that Stanfield, a resident of a small Georgia town and ignorant of the law, was "satisfied," makes no difference. And the fact that Carl Talbot, paid $7,000 a year by the government to serve as Wood's assistant, accepted the fee, makes no difference.
Congressman Wood knew what the law was and he knew that it is a criminal offense for his office to accept such a fee. He also knew that a member of Congress is paid by the government to work for all the people and he cannot take extra pay from one individual person.

Who Is the Rogue?
Now let's examine Wood's record. Two other affidavits are signed by Ralph Clark, Jr., of Flowery Branch, Ga., and Harold W. Puckett of Buford, Ga., stating that in September, 1949, Congressman Wood told them quite frankly that he was awarding the mail route at Flowery Branch to Homer Reeves, because of the large fee, he, Wood, had received in connection with a lawsuit brought by Reeves' father in breaking the will of the late Dr. George Bryce.

Reeves stood sixth on the list of eligibles. Yet Congressman Wood told those who were nearer the top of the list that, because of a large legal fee paid him in a lawsuit involving another applicant, they would be passed over. The congressman at least was frank.

Wood's Sobriety
While on the floor of Congress, a congressman is also supposed to remain sober and clear-headed. What does at home is his business. But what he does in Congress is the nation's business. His vote, his decisions on matters of state affect millions of people. For some time, however, Congressman Wood has let alcohol handicap his public duties. One affidavit shows that when he was solicitor general of the Blue Ridge judicial circuit, the local sheriff arrested the said John S. Wood while the said John S. Wood was drunk and placed him in a room in the Marlborough Hotel in Cumming, Ga., and held him there 24 hours instead of confining him to jail; and that the opening of the Superior Court of Forsyth county was delayed from Monday morning to Tuesday morning while the said John S. Wood sobered up and got in condition to perform his duties as solicitor general.

If the Congressman had changed, his earlier habits would not now be mentioned by me. But one of the most glaring instances of passing out on his own bill took place in May 1949 after Congressman Wood introduced what was known as "the Wood bill," a substitute for the Taft-Hartley bill. This was most important legislation. It affected scores of labor unions and millions of workmen.

But when the time came for the final debate on the Wood bill, its author was so under the influence of liquor that ex-Speaker Sam Martin and Congressman Charles Halleck of Indiana, two Republicans, substituted for him in arguing for his bill.
When the final vote came, Wood managed to appear on the House floor to vote, though he could hardly make it, and immediately thereafter retired to a couch in the Democratic cloakroom.
The congressman's so-called personal "eccentricities" would not have been mentioned by me, had he not asked for it. But the voting public has a right to know about them. It also has a right to know about Wood's personal servant on the payroll of the Un-American Activities committee, who actually worked in the Wood home. Finally, it has a right to know about his failure to investigate Hollywood after his close Georgia-lawyer friend, Ed Dunlap, received a hush fee from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Taken together, these attributes and incidents form a picture of a man who, as chairman of the Un-American Activities committee, is supposed to be a pillar of good Americanism and an example to the nation. The conclusion is inescapable that he isn't.

Written for NEA Service

"Your friend Pessimism Pete has nothing on one of the players in the Intercollegiate Championship held in Chicago last April," writes Geoffrey Mott-Smith, well-known tournament director. "The pessimistic college student was Frank Nichols, of Clark University."

West led the four of diamonds against the contract of six no-trump. South won in his own hand with the jack and looked around for a way to make sure of his contract.

Nichols decided that there were 12 cold tricks if the entire heart suit came in. However, even if that were the case, there was no suit play for 13 tricks. Since there was very little chance of making an extra trick, South decided to make absolutely sure of the 12 tricks that he needed for his contract by taking out insurance against a 5-1 or 6-0 split in hearts.

At the second trick, therefore, Nichols led the deuce of clubs. "Venus" was awarded. The hearts failed to break, and South needed three club tricks to make his contract. Thanks to the pessimistic play at the second trick, the queen of clubs dropped on the third round of that suit, and South made his slam with a spade, four cards, three diamonds, and three clubs.

It is a pleasure to learn that a new crop of pessimists is coming along to take the place of those who are growing older. It is also most encouraging to see such a high standard of play in intercollegiate bridge tournaments.

There's no doubt at all that the pessimistic lead of a club is the right play at rubber bridge. In a match-point game, however, it is open to question. I'd hate to make only 12 tricks and then find that all the other declarers made 13.

Puzzle Picture: Find Good and Bad Baby-Sitters

Four baby sitters (all of whom are really good, of course) obligingly stage a photograph demonstrating proper and improper ways to sit with an infant. At left, Claire Griffin poses as the curious baby-sitter who even stoops to snooping through old pocketbooks. Margaret Schaffer depicts the baby-sitter who just loves clothes and can't resist sifting drawers and closets to try them on. (Note beads and underwear spilling out of dresser.) She's a hungry type, too, and she leaves her banana around just anywhere. (On top of dresser.) At right, are Sally Rose and Gail DeWitt, as the Good Baby Sitters. Clock on table indicates 8 p. m. The baby is sleeping sweetly, and Gail dutifully does her homework. On the table are cookies and a glass of milk supplied by her thoughtful hostess and employer. The picture was staged in honor of the forthcoming Baby Sitter Institute which will be held next Wednesday at Kingston High School, with all baby-sitters and parents invited to attend and participate. SHOKAN

Date for the Republican town caucus to choose delegates to the county convention has been set for Saturday evening, July 1, at the residence of Lemuel E. DuBois in Ashokan. Session begins at 8 o'clock and will be open for one hour. Committeemen Patrick O'Keefe of Boiceville and L. E. DuBois signed the caucus notice.

Louise Suarez, Olive Bridge young woman, was a caller here Wednesday. Louise, formerly of Kingston, is a stenographer at the county health bureau office. What with the grass being stout and lush in this wet season, Peter Mastrotta's two fat sheep are hard put to keep the lawn mowed on the Mastrotta summer place along the Trail.

Mrs. Russell Bolce, Kingston matron who before her marriage was Dorothy Hyde of Shokan, was a caller Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Fred Adams.

Whatever would the churches do without the various women's societies whose members labor so consistently in the Lord's vineyard? Take the Bloomville W.S.C.S., for instance; during the past year they have purchased paint for the parsonage and barn, a water heater for the parson's home, redecorated the church kitchen and dining room as well as some of the rooms at the parsonage, paid $100 on the budget and $140 on missionary work.

Report has it that the Olive Legion Post will sponsor at least two of the three Boy Scout troops in the town next year.

Continuance of the building boom is attested by the vast shipments of lumber being hauled up and down the Trail these days. Much of the east bound lumber appears to be green, indicating perhaps that the demand is keeping right up with the supply at mountain mill-yards. Traffic going up is not quite so heavy and the carriers presumably are made up largely of flooring and other seasoned stuff. The hauling of cement, stone blocks, roofing, etc., is of course mostly west-bound. Highway 28, or Ontario Trail has become one of the Empire State's great trucking routes.

Lie Settles Question
Lake Success, June 24 (AP)—An angry Trygve Lie said last night that a question about any Communist affiliation he might have had was "not a proper" query. But he added that he has "always been a member of the Norwegian Labor party, which is a Socialist, not a Communist party." The statement from the secretary-general of the United Nations was issued three hours after he failed to give a direct answer when asked by a newspaper correspondent to state whether he is or ever has been a Communist.

Bidault Falls
Paris, June 24 (AP)—The government of Premier Georges Bidault fell today on an issue of confidence. The defeat came in the midst of a portentous European steel-plate conference in which France hopes to gain a foothold. Some observers said the cabinet's fall may be a blow to these negotiations. The vote against Bidault was 352 to 230. His own M.R.P. and the radical Socialists supported him against combined opposition of Socialists, Communists and the extreme right wing de Gaulists.

Rent Controls Continue
Washington, June 24 (AP)—Federal rent controls now will continue for the remainder of this year, and cities wanting to can keep them for the first six months of 1951. A bill extending the rent control law beyond June 30 was signed yesterday by President Truman. It covers for end of controls December 31 except where cities or their local governments vote to retain them. In such cases they could continue locally until June 30, 1951.

Seek 'Sandy' Koliner
Kingston police have been asked to assist in locating a 17-year-old Brooklyn girl who has been missing from her home since June 7 and who might be employed in this area. The girl, Dorothy "Sandy" Koliner, was described by her father, George Koliner of 344-A Thirteenth street, Brooklyn, as 5 feet 10 1/2 inches tall, weighing 185 pounds with hazel eyes and brown hair. When last seen, she was wearing dark blue skirt and jacket and a green sweater, her father said.

Plane Is . . .

unit said it would send out its planes.

The search area was vast covering about 32,000 square miles. The big search turned up conflicting reports. In Chicago, Coast Guard Captain Daniel Fulford said that wreckage had been sighted nine miles off Milwaukee's North Breakwater Light. Milwaukee craft however could not locate it.

The air route traffic control center in Chicago said that Northwest's Duluth control tower had heard a constant radio signal which it could not fix exactly. Government listening stations said they could not pick it up.

The Milwaukee office of Northwest Air Lines said one of their cargo planes had sighted an oil slick about six miles south east of South Milwaukee.

Bar Blasts Dewey
The executive committee said that Dewey had the power to deal with "incompetent" judges and referred to a section of the state constitution which provides that the chief judge of the Court of Appeals, upon written request of the governor can convene "the court on the judiciary."

This court may remove a judge "for cause" or may retire a judge "for mental or physical disability preventing the proper performance of his judicial duties."

Wants New Coalition
New York, June 24 (AP)—Thomas J. Curran, New York county Republican chairman, has suggested another Democratic-Republican coalition—this time to defeat Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D.-A.L.P.), Harlem Negro clergyman. He urged the same kind of political combine against Rep.

Probers Seek Transcript
Washington, June 24 (AP)—Senate investigators pressed the Justice Department anew today for the full transcript of an F.B.I.-recorded talk which Diplomat John S. Service had in 1945 with Amerasia Editor Philip Jaffe. That move came amid indications a senatorial study of State Department loyalty files will bring no unanimous conclusions within the inquiry group regarding charges by Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.)
